Description

Hello I am trying to connect to a core on a "Freedombox" which I have never done before and this gizmos are pretty new and still alittle buggy. Well I am getting an "authentication required" loop where my username and password don't get authenticated and the window just pops up over and over. I've also never used a windows client so that might be something about it as well. Thank you all for working on this project!

Hi there. I'm going through the backlog of bugs in the queue and handling ones I think I can help out with. First of all, are you still having this issue?

This bug report is a little vague, it's unclear as to whether you're experiencing the authentication issues before performing the initial setup or after.

Have you done the initial setup wizard, where you configure a user, identity and networks?

If you have done the initial setup, were you ever able to successfully connect to the Quassel core?
